A Report on World Investor Week 2024 Celebration at GTU-SMS

Title : World Investor Week 2024

Type of Event : IOSCO world investor week 2024

Date : 16th to 18th October, 2024

Description : World Investor Week, organized globally by IOSCO to promote investor education and financial literacy, was celebrated at GTU-SMS under the supervision of Dr. Priyanka Bhatt, Dr. Kaushal Bhatt, and Rajan Modha. The event featured expert sessions, interactive activities, and live trading, empowering students with essential financial knowledge.

Day-1 :

Date : 16th October, 2024

Time : 12:00 AM to 6:00 PM

Venue : BSE, Mumbai

ANMI Investisiya 2024 was a notable national seminar organized by the Association of National Exchanges Members of India (ANMI) at the BSE International Convention Hall in Mumbai, in collaboration with the IOSCO World Investor Week. This prestigious event brought together students from over 100 colleges across India, including a delegation from Gujarat Technological University (GTU). Partnering with NISM, GTU provided its students with a unique opportunity to gain firsthand knowledge about investments and financial markets, aligning with its mission to foster financial literacy.

The seminar featured esteemed speakers from key financial organizations such as CDSL, NISM, MSE, and SEBI, offering insights into the complexities of financial markets and modern investment strategies. The GTU-SMS delegation, comprising 10 students, participated under the guidance of Associate Professor Dr. Priyanka Bhatt, and benefitted from this immersive learning experience. Throughout the seminar, students gained valuable exposure to financial concepts that will enhance their capabilities as informed investors. The event also highlighted GTU-SMS's active involvement, which was appreciated, reflecting its commitment to student education in finance.

As a partner of NISM, GTU-SMS was honored with a Token of Appreciation for its contributions to promoting investment awareness and financial literacy. This recognition underscored GTU's role in equipping students with essential financial knowledge. Besides the seminar, students participated in various interactive competitions, such as reel-making contests, street plays, quizzes, and puzzles, all designed to engage participants in understanding investment practices in a creative and engaging manner.

The ANMI Investisiya 2024 was both informative and entertaining, with activities like an innovative puppet show delivering investment knowledge in an enjoyable way. The event not only broadened students' understanding of the financial world but also encouraged them to become more responsible and informed investors, preparing them for future roles in the financial sector.

Day- 2:

Date :17th October, 2024

Time :2:00 to 3:00 PM

Venue : GTU-SMS

On the second day of World Investor Week at GTU-School of Management Studies, a quiz competition was organized to boost financial literacy and deepen students' understanding of investment concepts. The event aligned with the broader goals of Investor Week 2024 by promoting active engagement in investment-related activities. Five teams—Team A, B, C, D, and E—each composed of students from Finance and International Business specializations, competed to answer questions related to financial markets, investment strategies, and current economic trends.

The competition was structured with eight questions per team, where participants had 45 seconds to respond. Correct answers earned 10 marks, while incorrect answers resulted in a 5-mark deduction. Passed questions were awarded 5 marks, and the quiz master held the final authority in determining the winner. Throughout the event, teams demonstrated excellent collaboration, combining their expertise to tackle complex topics. A notable highlight occurred when Team E correctly answered a challenging question about the yield curve, which gave them a decisive lead.

At the end of the competition, Team E emerged as the winner with a score of 50 marks, showcasing strong knowledge in stock markets, investment strategies, and foreign institutional investor flows. Team D secured second place, performing well in general finance and financial instruments. The quiz was well-received by participants, who appreciated the opportunity to test their knowledge and collaborate in a competitive yet educational setting.

Day- 3:

Date :18th October, 2024

Time :2:00 to 3:00 PM

Venue : BSE, Ahmedabad

As part of the World Investor Week 2024 celebrations, MBA-IB Finance students from GTU School of Management Studies, accompanied by Dr. Priyanka Bhatt, Dr. Kaushal Bhatt, and Rajan Modha, visited BSE Ahmedabad on October 18, 2024. The group received a warm welcome from the BSE staff, and the session commenced with an informative presentation on the history of the Bombay Stock Exchange (BSE). Established in 1875 as Asia's first stock exchange, BSE originally focused on cotton trading but transitioned towards equity markets after India's independence, reflecting the growing financial needs of the country. The presentation also covered key milestones, including the formation of SEBI in 1992, which ensured greater transparency and investor protection.

The session provided students with insights into the evolution of India's financial markets, particularly the shift to online trading platforms in 1995, facilitated by NSDL and CDSL. These electronic systems streamlined the recording of transactions, replacing the earlier broker-based system. Students were introduced to a range of investment instruments, including equities, debt instruments, debentures, derivatives, government securities, mutual funds, and Exchange-Traded Funds (ETFs). The discussion on ETFs highlighted how these funds are managed on behalf of investors, offering a practical understanding of modern investment strategies.

A significant part of the presentation focused on the T+1 settlement cycle, which has expedited the process of clearing transactions. Previously, trades followed a monthly cycle, but advancements in banking and clearing systems have significantly reduced the time frame, allowing for faster reinvestment. Students were also briefed on various company classifications by market capitalization, shareholding patterns, and updates to IPO processes, particularly the introduction of UPI and ASBA to streamline applications. A live demonstration of price movements on the trading terminal added further depth to the session.

In addition to the educational discussions, a Financial Housie game was organized, with Monan Sheraji emerging as the winner. The interactive game provided a fun way for students to reinforce their knowledge of financial concepts. GTU-SMS presented a token of appreciation to the expert speaker, acknowledging the valuable insights shared during the session.

A creative poster-making activity was also conducted, where students expressed their understanding of key financial and investment concepts through art. This added a unique and creative dimension to the day's events, encouraging participants to explore finance visually.
